Current Comment By R. H. K.

The opinions (if any) expressed herein, are not necessarily those of The Campbell Press.

Last week The Press celebrated its 36th birthday; although, had we cared to work back to the date of the paper's beginning as the "Campbell Weekly Visitor" in 1895, we could claim the advanced age (for a newspaper) of 43 years.

Somewhere in the dim past, probably between the "Visitor" and its almost immediate successor (there seems to have been a brief period here when Campbell was without a paper) the "Campbell Interurban Press," the volume number got mixed up with the then publisher's grocery bill, or something, and cheated the paper out of 11 of its honorable years, including the time it appeared as the "Visitor." Or, if you prefer, we are stealing two years of the "Visitor's" thunder, as the "Interurban Press" did not appear as such until 1904.

Ennyhoo, since the thing has been left more or less up to your commentator, and being that paper and pencils cost what they do, and, what is more important, my arithmetic being what it is, we're going to let sleeping dogs lie and officially decree our last issue to be the start of Volume 36.

If anyone should ask you if the Campbell paper is "established," you can say, without fear of successful contradiction, that The Press has been appearing in one form or another for at least 36 years. And if anyone cares to make an issue of it, we can claim and prove 43 years of almost continuous publication.

In Vol. 1, No. 1 of the Campbell Interurban Press, published by Elgin C. Hurlbert in 1904, it is interesting to note that the town was agog over the start of construction of the interurban street railway which ultimately linked San Jose, Campbell, Los Gatos, Meridian Corner—and back to San Jose again. Little evidence remains that this highly popular service ever existed.

The fact that elections were taken seriously in those days might be proved by the "lead" over the "personal" column: Register! Register! Register! Register before it is too late! Farther down the column is the item: The county Republican convention met in San Jose Saturday. The Democrats met Monday, and Ringlings' circus came Tuesday. A great week has gone into history.

One might suspect Mr. Hurlbert of being something of a wag.

Among the news items are few names one hears nowadays. One paragraph, however, remarks that: Mrs. A. B. Townsend and baby are home from an extended visit with relatives at Watsonville. (Harold, I betcha.)

In the "Visitor" of May 23, 1896, appears this one: A horse and buggy minus the driver were found loose on Rincon avenue Wednesday night and left at the Westlake place to await the appearance of the owner.

The item today might read: John Jones passed out at the wheel of his car Wednesday night, the car crashing into a ditch on Rincon avenue, and John is in the morgue.

The horse and buggy had advantages.

Throughout the files of the "Visitor" and the "Interurban Press" one notes the regularity of advertising appearing over the name of J. Blaine. Though recent comers to this community don't know it, John D. Blaine, our local justice, for many years operated a successful business here, contributing to the growth of the town, and, as do some of our faithful advertisers today, helped to make possible the publication of a good, small town newspaper. May his

ELECTION PREDICTED

Campbell supporters of Adron A. Beene, candidate for state senator for Santa Clara county, today predicted victory for their candidate in the general election Nov. 8, based on widespread support from electors of both Democratic and Republican registration.

Underworld Flocks to Santa Clara Cty., Said

The underworld characters of San Francisco have been quietly moving into Santa Clara county, making every effort not to disturb those people in the county who are against their activities. The truth of this statement is shown by the following quotation from Arthur Caylor, editorial writer of the San Francisco News, appearing in that paper Sept. 10, 1938:

"... For San Francisco, the roistering seaport town, seems to have disappeared. . . . The play has been taken away from rough, tough, anything-goes San Francisco by mild, homey Santa Clara county. . . . For open action, openly arrived at, you have to make an inland march. Nowadays, you progress right through San Mateo county, and on past walk-amile-for-a-drink Stanford. "There you will find the new home of old friends like chuck-a-tuck, crap tables, roulette, blackjack, and the four-bit slot machine. What makes it all exceedingly different from old times, our underworld operatives report, is that most of the spots are operated not by sons of San Francisco, but by Eastern gentlemen."

It is these eastern and San Francisco gentlemen who have reached into the campaign for district attorney and are making a desperate effort to defeat Eugene B. Grattan. They know that he will prevent their illegal activities and their attempts to turn this county into a vice and gambling center for the San Francisco world's fair, according to advices received today from Grattan's campaign workers.

GRAMMAR P.T.A. PLANS MEETING FOR NOV. 1st

The November meeting of the Campbell Union Grammar school P.T.A. will be held Nov. 1 at 2:30 o'clock in the kindergarten room. A. H. Horrall, assistant city superintendent of schools will be the speaker.

The grammar school orchestra, under the leadership of A. A. Thielke, will play. The executive board will meet at 1:30 o'clock sharp in the teacher's room.

Bert Robinson, who was injured last week in football practice and had been in the San Jose hospital, was brought home Tuesday. His injury, though serious and which will keep him inactive for some time to come, yielded to treatment and healed more quickly than was anticipated.

good example produce increasingly heavy crops.

Cambrian school Dad's club is arranging an old time dance, box-lunch benefit party to be held Saturday night, Oct. 29, in the auditorium of the school. Proceeds will be used for the Cambrian Boy Scout troop, which is sponsored by the club.

Youth Program At Local Church Set for Nov. 4th

The annual youth program of the Campbell Congregational church will be held on Friday, Nov. 4, at 8 p. m. in the Campbell Grammar school auditorium. The proceeds will go to the youth project of the church.

This year the program will center in a three act play entitled "The Showboat." The cast will be all high school young people excepting Captain Peppercorn, Ray Fish; and his black boat boy, Toby, Dennis Bennett; Emily Bohnett and Eva Borg. Other members of the cast will be Robert Gates, Carl Arnold, Paul Borg, Lois Bohnett, Lorene Horner and Nora Brydon. Robert Nicholls will lead a twenty piece orchestra.

The second act will be the Showboat program and will be one long interesting show. Four special short and humorous stunts will be given by members of the groups. Also an action song "Hats of Other Days." A special attraction will be the appearance for the first time in Campbell of "Trick Nelson" and his talented family in cowboy songs, ropings and whip cracking. "Trick" Nelson is the Rev. Roy W. Nelson now minister at the Cupertino church, who was a cow boy before entering the ministry.

Another attraction will be the music of Scottish bagpipes, and Scottish dances performed by Dr. W. D. Gordon and his son, Bill Gordon, of San Jose.

Tickets of admission are very reasonable. Special prices for children of grammar school age. No seats reserved.

SPECIAL MUSIC WRITTEN FOR BALLET CARAVAN

Music written especially for those dances of the Ballet Caravan which are based on the American scene, will give added interest to this All-American company when it opens the San Jose Concert series in the civic auditorium in that city on Saturday evening, November 5.

Music for "Filling Station" was written by Virgil Thomson, native composer. All of the music for the Ballet Caravan is written for two pianos, which are played by the two brilliant concert pianists, Trude Rittman and Pablo Miquel. Trude Rittman has given concerts in Germany, France, Holland and England, and been dance accompanist for the Jooss group in England and for the Monnaie Ballet in Brussels. Pablo Miquel has toured as pianist with such great artists as Martinelli, Eva Gautier, Escudero, Paul Althouse and many others.

Aaron Copland has written the music for "Billy the Kid," the third ballet for the San Jose program. Copland's knowledge and expert use of jazz, cowboy rhythms and songs, and his fascinating melodies make a wonderful background for the wanderings of this early American bandit who killed some twenty-one men, "not counting Mexicans and niggers."

The first ballet on the program will be in classic style, danced to Bach's "Goldberg Variations."

Hill Explains Propositions to Kiwanis Club

Henri G. Hill of the firm of Bohnett, Hill, Cottrell and Boccardo, discussed the ballot propositions before the Kiwanis club Tuesday; Herbert Shadle, chairman.

Next week the club will join their club brothers at Los Gatos on Thursday, Nov. 3, when Ed Levin will speak on Alaska. A fine meeting is promised and all members urged to attend.

C. C. Cottrell, San Jose attorney and former assemblyman, explained the propositions on the November ballot at the meeting of Orchard City Grange Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Royal C. Page recently purchased the Grace Page property on Minna street and are now making it their home.

Primary Rival Endorses Hall

Marshall S. Hall, right, candidate for assemblyman for the 31st district, which includes Campbell, is shown with Earl A. Colby, a rival candidate for the assembly post in the primary election, who announced his endorsement of Hall today. Colby urged his supporters to actively support Hall.

Big Boy Station Wrecked—Again

For years the favorite target for speeding autoists, the Big Boy service station on the Los Gatos-Santa Clara highway and San Tomas road, was practically demolished last Friday when Dean Prudden of San Jose cut off the pumps completely and broke down the supports of the portico, letting the roof collapse. The car was clear of the building before the canopy fell.

Mrs. Mary Turturici is undecided as to rebuilding, particularly on the same spot.

Chest Closing Date Postponed

Workers for the Community Chest budget have been putting forth extra efforts to realize the goal set as necessary to keep the various organizations functioning and provide for necessary relief.

For this reason the closing date has been postponed to November 1. Reports are still being turned in and Manager Ira Grim feels that subscribers are giving as liberally as possible, but if there are any people who were not called upon or who were away from home when representatives did call, that can make a donation of any amount, kindly phone Campbell 68 or 224.

Reports are still coming in so that the final report is not available, but the committee is most anxious to reach the goal set at $1500.

IOOF ROLL CALL DINNER SET FOR NOV. 17th

Morning Light Lodge No. 42 will hold its annual membership roll call on the evening of November 17.

This yearly event is always the forerunner of an active social winter season.

Noble Grand Franklin Blaine has appointed committees to arrange for an early dinner and a program of entertainment.

All members are urged to set aside any other engagements for this date and to inform the secretary of their intentions to be present.

C. S. LECTURE AT LOS GATOS

Thomas E. Hurley, C. S. B., of Louisville, Kentucky, a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston will give a lecture on Christian Science next Monday evening, Oct. 31 at 8 o'clock in the Los Gatos Union High school auditorium.

The lecture is given under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist of Los Gatos. The public is cordially invited.

The T. M. Smiley family who had made their home in Campbell for several years, residing on Winchester road, have moved to Wil- low Glen.

Mark Purmort Writes From North Carolina

We are sure that readers of the Press will enjoy the following interesting letter received by us from our good friend, M. E. Purmort.

Sylvia, N. C.
Oct. 16, 1938

Here we are in the Smoky mountains of North Carolina, one of the most interesting places of our trip so far. We are about 2000 feet elevation, which gives it about the same climate as ours at Campbell now. Cool nights with a little fog in the morning which gives way to sunshine by 9 or 10 o'clock. The roads are rather narrow and very winding; the timber is maple, oak, pine, walnut, hickory and dogwood with sumach brush and others, with a riot of colors that have to be seen to know just how beautiful it can be. The streams all have water and on a trip yesterday we saw a great many rapids and some real falls, one where the road runs under the cliff and behind the waterfall. The hills are dotted with mountain homes, for the most part small mountaineer shacks that we read so much about, with a stove or brick fireplace built at one end of the house—nearly half the length of that end; and near-by little patches of corn where ever there is room to turn a mule around with a plow. We meet many a farm man, boy or woman carrying a sack of meal from 10 to 100 pounds, either under their arm or on their shoulders. We have seen a good many of the old fashioned water wheels, running different things from a little mill to grind corn to an electric motor.

The town of Sylvia is a place of about 1500 with the main street having the floor of the valley with the residential streets running up the side hills about a block. The inhabitants are what I had read about but did not know really were with us yet, that is the so-called "hillbillies." They are a race by themselves. They come to town, especially Saturday afternoons, and the men seem to have no particular business but to visit and chew tobacco. They are tall raw-boned men and rather flat breasted women. Both women and men seem to enjoy the street loafing. One woman sat on a street bench nursing the baby. Sylvia is the county seat. I visited the courthouse and it was a rather recent building but was typical of the rest of the country with cupboards placed along the walls and beside the seats.

As I write I can hear hounds baying back in the hills where they hunt. Last night I was awakened hearing a hound baying I suppose opossum hunting as the moon was bright. Then the southern talk makes it all so different. We are visiting Julius Gillis, Mrs. Purmort's brother who is here developing some mining industries. The ore is nickel, copper, mica and several minor ores. He is the consulting engineer who was in Russia for seven years. He tells me

Geo. McConnell, 71, Dies In San Jose Wednesday

George Otis McConnell passed away in San Jose, Wednesday, Oct. 26, at the age of 71 years and six months.

McConnell was known to a wide circle of friends and acquaintances here years ago when he was a resident of Johnson avenue, and his children were students in the local schools.

Removing from Campbell he operated a ranch out of Santa Clara for a number of years.

He was a member of Masonic lodge at Callaway, Nebr., and of the Scottish Rite bodies at Hastings, Nebr., also of the O. E. S. of Los Gatos.

Surviving members of his family are his wife, Dora; daughters, Mrs. Leora Rothwell, Bellingham, Wash.; Mrs. Olive Innes, Mrs. Marie Meyer and Miss Wauwetta McConnell of San Jose; son, Ira O. McConnell also of San Jose, and several grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow (Friday), at 10 a. m., from the Ames Williams and company parlors.

Pomona Grange Meeting Dates

The Santa Clara County Pomona Grange will hold its regular meeting Saturday, Nov. 5, at 1 P. M., in the Almaden Union Grammar school. At this meeting election of officers will be held, and a pot luck supper will be served at 6 o'clock, with the lecturer's program at 8 o'clock.

The evening meeting is open to the public. Monday evening, Oct. 31, at 8 o'clock, there will be a mass meeting at the Roosevelt Junior High school, 19th and Santa Clara streets, San Jose, at which the Revenue Bond act of 1937 (also known as the Garrison Revenue Bond act) will be discussed by Franklin Hichborn and H. See, state legislative chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. "Every farmer and property owner in this district should be at this meeting, as this is a state-wide campaign of the Grange and other farm organizations in California," said B. N. Hill, Pomona master.

MRS. H. P. BEAN HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. H. P. Bean, living on the Williams road, was happily surprised last Saturday evening. Mrs. Gladys Smith, daughter of Mrs. Bean, planned a dinner party in honor of her mother's eighty-second birthday.

The table was decorated with fall flowers and a baked ham dinner was served.

At the close of the dinner Jimmie Smith, the seven year old grand son carried in a lighted birthday cake and many beautiful gifts.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Smith and son Jim of Vallejo; Miss Annie Bean, San Jose; Miss Charity Ann Webb, Brentwood; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Webb, San Jose; Mrs. Fanny Price Webb.

Mrs. Bean has lived in this community for over half a century. She has always been an active member in club work and is at present a member of Campbell Country Woman's club and the Moreland club.

Dr. Bernard Robson of San Francisco and his mother, Mrs. George S. Robson, left Monday for a vacation at Lake Tahoe.

Patrons of the Campbell library are notified that the library will be closed election day, Nov. 8, and Armistice day, Nov. 11.

that some of the old feuds here still exist and a shooting was pulled off in the last two months.

From here we go to Cumberland Gap where Mrs. Purmort's father was in the battle with the Union forces, then to Chickamauga Park where I served in the Spanish war and then on the Burbank, Calif., to see my sister, Mrs. Hart, then "Home to Campbell."

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK. — Barring world champion prizefighters, Thomas E. Dewey probably has received more publicity than any other American of his years. He is only 36, but almost everything about him is old news. However, as the New York Republicans nominated him for governor, the whole country seems hungry for information about the cock of his eyebrow, his gold fillings, if any, the set of his suspenders and whether he runs down the heels of his shoes. Friends from the West and Far West have told me, and some have written, that there is more talk about Thomas E. Dewey for President than about all the other possibilities put together. These informants say the talk is not partisan — that New York's young racket-buster is becoming the national symbol of a "happy issue out of all our afflictions."

This reporter hereby hands him the agrarian vote: on the banks of the Shawnee, near Owosso, in the state of Michigan, he was a demon cow milker. People would come for miles to see and hear him milk a cow. Musically gifted, he could make the powerful milk stream ring a tune in the pail as he sang "La Boheme," or "Il Traviata." His father ran a country newspaper. As to the industrial East, he is a cagey bridge player who never takes his partner out of a business double. He is a squash player in winter, and a tennis player in summer. He sings baritone, a safe vocal as well as political range, and was trained as an opera singer, first in New York on a musical scholarship. There's nothing showy about him and he never makes a play to the press coop.

He appears to be, to this observer, the answer to Stuart Chase's plea for a new kind of politician. In a magazine article printed about a year ago, Mr. Chase tore all political dogmas to tatters and said we would get nowhere until we began to isolate and attack given problems and settle them according to their immediate requirements, without regard to their political or philosophical context. Big town racketeering is one of those "given problems" and then some. It is interesting to note that, in his acceptance speech, Mr. Dewey renounced "political dogma."

On most of the specific political issues of the day, Mr. Dewey's opinion has not been revealed. He has been slated as "liberal" and "progressive," but, in the days of "Tippiecanoe and Tyler, too," the country esteemed fighting men and apparently still does.

GREECE has had several associations to get the Elgin marbles from England. They're still there. The Association of Men With Wings seems to have better prospects of reclaiming for Wright Plane America the original Wright brothers' airplane. Orville Wright, who, for quite human and understandable reasons, let the plane go to England, now joins the association in its effort to bring it back to this country.

When and if they succeed, it will be another feather in the flying helmet of Col. Charles Wayne Kerwood. Ever since he stopped daredevil as one of America's most spectacular and adventurous aviators, he has been plotting to get that plane, even if he has to kidnap it. That was why he formed the above association, of which he is president.

He flew and fought with the French in the World war, with the Greeks against the Turks in 1922, was wounded and grounded more than once, turned to barnstorming and sensational knockabout flying, and became president of the International League of Aviators. He is a native of Chicago, big, bronzed, moustachioed, once a flying and fighting buddy of General Franco, against the Riffs.

THIS department would like to come out boldly against something. An unflinching stand against red fingernails looks pretty safe.

Old Trickery Again Being Used In Writing Views of a President

That Intangible Personality, the 'White House Spokesman,' Is Back on the Job; Makes Goats of Writers; Taxes Blamed for Added Burden Business Carries.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON. — The "White House Spokesman" is back! That ghostly, shy and sometimes playful figure has been resurrected from the grave where President Roosevelt interred his intangible personality early in March, 1933. He was placed there with proper ceremonies by Mr. Roosevelt after his witchlike voice had served during the administrations of Presidents Coolidge and Hoover, and after he had served valiantly as the source of one inspired news story after another. Mr. Roosevelt unmasked the "White House Spokesman" as just the President of the United States, speaking behind his hand. But lo! Here is that man again.

I could not help laughing a bit the other day when the "White House Spokesman" reappeared on the front pages of metropolitan daily newspapers, in the work-a-day clothes of "authoritative White House sources." Grieving as most writers did that this trickery had to be employed in order to write a President's views, I enjoyed the humor of the situation, nevertheless. If the White House Spokesman was going to be reborn, what more proper place could there be than Hyde Park, N. Y., the President's summer home. That delightful home on the banks of the Hudson river is only about the length of an airplane runway from the fiction scenes of nightly riding by "the headless horseman of Sleepy Hollow."

But restoration of the "White House Spokesman" to his place of eminence is a serious matter. Use of such a disguise, such a mask, has no place in American life. Many a time in the period when Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover occupied the White House, there were stories sent to all parts of the nation that came from the "White House Spokesman." It was a silly procedure. It was both silly and cheap. The head of the government was simply using the correspondents as vehicles to carry the responsibility which the then occupant of the White House should have assumed.

Some stories were trial balloons; some were expressions of a personal opinion by the President which he was not quite ready to espouse publicly, and others were pieces of just plain trickery, given out with the understanding that the President should not be directly quoted. The course was adopted, so it was claimed, as a means of giving the writers all of the available facts right up to the minute.

Just Kidding and Fooling Readers of Newspapers

Well, without questioning the sincerity of purpose, the fact remains that the writers were the goats. And here they are being made the goats again, and the public, the readers of newspapers, are to be kidded and fooled some more. What's the excuse? There is none. It is the same old ostrich and the same old sand in which he is hiding his head; so why do it?

The present, and rejuvenated, "White House Spokesman" had a good deal to say, behind this shadowy veil, about the desirability of a truce between business and labor, a truce with the administration in Washington. The bitterness between industry and government was made almost into a parallel with European conditions, and the "Spokesman" went further to suggest that some method of getting together, comparable to the European "settlement," should be used here.

Well, I imagine there is none in our country who do not hope for, and believe in the need of, a lasting peace between business and government. As the shadowy form said, as it floated over Hyde Park, there has been too much name calling, too many charges and recriminations. The condition has slowed up general business; it has made the relief rolls full to overflowing. But when the "White House Spokesman" seeks a "settlement" like that at Munich, Germany, where Dictator Hitler grabbed everything he wanted—well, let me observe that it was a swell subject as an illustration why the "White House Spokesman" should remain in his grave!

There was another phase of the "Spokesman's" backfence snarling that is bound to disturb the neighbor's sleep. It was tantamount to a demand that business stop misrepresenting the government's attitude—this being the New Deal attitude—toward business. That is to say, there was a veiled charge that business, which is to say, "the economic royalists," have been lying about the government's programs and objectives, no mention being made of some of the abortive results.

Blame Taxes for Added Burden Business Carries

The news dispatches from Hyde Park made reference to unfair stories about taxes. The "Spokesman" specifically asserted that business interests were all wet when they asserted that federal taxes are heavier now than one, three or five years ago. It struck me as being a queer complaint, because federal taxes are higher; there are more of them in number and the rates on nearly all the old ones are higher. Treasury figures show that the federal government collected $3,115,000,000 in taxes five years ago. The same official figures show collections of more than $4,100,000,000 three years ago, and in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1937, the collections were announced as $5,290,000,000. Then, on June 30, this year, the official figures recorded collections of $6,240,000,000. To be absolutely fair, it must be considered that business was at its lowest ebb five years ago. Hence, tax payments were at the lowest. But, without attempting to cite all of the increases in rates and new taxes invoked, new taxes and new rates have been responsible, too, for the increased burden which business carries.

It is important, also, in connection with the consideration of taxes to call attention to the federal government's budget condition. At the end of September, when the first quarter of the fiscal year was completed, there was a deficit of more than $700,000,000. The Treasury had been called upon to pay out $700,000,000 more than it had taken in by way of taxes. If my country school multiplication still serves me, there is a deficit indicated for the current fiscal year of approximately $2,800,000,000 since there are four quarters in each year. It may be less—or it may be more.

No 'Breathing Spell' Ever Has Taken Place

In the matter of a truce between the government and industry, I believe I recall accurately the famous "breathing spell" of several years ago. Roy Howard, the Pittsburgh and New York newspaper publisher, wrote a letter in which he told the President of the need for co-operation between the government and business and suggested at the same time how encouraging it would be if business could be assured that government harassment of business was at an end. If I remember, Mr. Roosevelt said in his reply that the major portion of his New Deal reforms was completed and there would be a "breathing spell." It was about that time, too, that Vice President Garner was reported to have said it was time to let the cattle get fat; that they had been chased around until they were just skin and bones. He meant, of course, that if business was going to expand and re-employ workers, then on relief, the government must quit taking everything the employers received. Well, neither the "breathing spell" nor the fattening process ever has taken place.

Further, reference might be made to the fact that, not the "White House Spokesman," but numerous spokesmen for Mr. Roosevelt have been having great fun riding astride the neck of business. One can refer to the activities of Robert H. Jackson, trust buster extraordinary; to Thurman Arnold, who succeeded to Mr. Jackson's job in the department of justice; to William O. Douglas, or to Secretary Ickes. Each of these has had several turns swinging a bludgeon at business men, and they will swing them some more.

So, perhaps Mr. Roosevelt's analogy in which he compared the European situation and "settlement" with the idea of a settlement between government and business was not so far wrong. Perhaps the "settlement" by which Hitler took over great chunks of Czechoslovakia is the way the "authoritative sources" or the "White House Spokesman" would have our government take over most private industry.

Needs Encouragement From Leaders in Public Life

The "White House Spokesman's" suggestion about a truce and co-operative effort between business and government brought a response from Charles M. Hook, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, who assured the President that "there will be no rattling of sabers as far as the manufacturers are concerned." He said there would be an upward surge in business "if there is encouragement from leaders in public life." I am not able to say what is meant by the "no saber rattling" beyond the obvious meaning of a willingness to keep the collective business mouth shut.

Actually, it appears the crux of the whole problem is to be found in the fact that throughout the Roosevelt administration there are many officials who blab and blab and have little or no idea of the matter they are discussing, while on the business side of the fence the fellows who pop off most are incapable of far vision.

Culture on the Payroll

CONTRARY to the impression among many scholars, culture in this world is absolutely dependent upon economic prosperity. It was no accident that the Periclean age came at a time when ancient Greece was very prosperous and had established a thousand trading posts in all parts of the civilized world. When her commercial prosperity died out, the culture of Greece was at an end too.

The great Augustan period of Roman literature flowered when the Roman Empire enjoyed its peak of commercial prosperity and collapsed when the economic system collapsed. The same was true with the Italian Renaissance, that golden period of art and culture.

At every age in history it was the material wealth of industry that stimulated and supported cultural pursuits. As a result, culture today is most widespread in those lands where industry is most productive.

In the United States we have had 150 years of unparalleled productivity. With only 7 per cent of the world's population living here, we have produced one-half of all the wealth on this globe. That is why, in these same 150 years, we have been able to build more schools and colleges than all the rest of the world combined.

Among the greatest media for disseminating culture in this country are newspapers, magazines, and radio, in all of which we lead the world. The combined circulation of the 13,000 periodicals and newspapers included in the census is over 300,000,000—nearly 10 for every family. There are 700 broadcasting stations in the United States and 80 per cent of all families own radios.

These great instruments of education and culture in our country are supported chiefly by revenue from the advertising of merchants and manufacturers. The amount readers pay for most newspapers and magazines represents only a small portion of their actual cost. Thus the very finest in literature, art, and music is provided for the people without cost, as a by-product of the efficient working of our commercial system.

Advertising does much more for culture besides supporting the bulk of our printed publications and radio broadcasts. Our entire economic prosperity is linked up with advertising, which is an indispensable part of the important process of large-scale selling on the part of our merchants without which our modern industries could not operate and could not support present-day cultural activities. Advertising helps to bring down the cost of the things necessary to a civilized existence and popularizes culture itself. The merchant who advertises can sell for less than the merchant who does not advertise.

In many ways, advertising subsidizes education for the masses and stimulates people with the necessary desire to attain a higher level of culture.

SYNOPSIS

Barbara Sentry, seeking to sober up her escort, Johnnie Boyd, on the way home from a party, slaps him, and attracts the attention of a policeman, whom the boy knocks down. As he arrests him, Professor Brace of Harvard comes to the rescue and drives Barbara home. On the way they see Barbara's father driving from the direction of his office at 12:45, but when he gets home he tells his wife it is 11:15 and that he's been playing bridge at the club. Next day Sentry reports his office has been robbed and a Miss Wines, former temporary employee, killed. The evening papers luridly confirm the story, and Sentry takes it hard. Mary, elder daughter, in love with Neil Ray, young interne at the hospital where she works, goes off to dinner at Gus Loran's, Sentry's partner, with Mrs. Loran's brother, Jimmy Endle, Mr. and Mrs. Sentry call on old Mrs. Sentry, and Barbara, alone, receives Dan Fisher, reporter, who advises her not to talk. Phil Sentry, son at Yale, is disturbed at the possible implications and suspicion of Miss Wines' absence from her room for three days during August. He goes home to help. Sentry is arrested and booked for murder. Dan Fisher explains the evidence against him—that the robbery was a fake, the safe opened by one who knew the combination, changed since Miss Wines' employment there—that a back door key, a duplicate of Sentry's, was found in the girl's purse, and that Sentry, too, had been away those three days in August. Brace calls, and backs up Barbara in her denial that Sentry could have done it, because of the discrepancy of time between the slaying and their seeing Sentry on the road. Phil, showing the police over the house, finds his strong box forced open and his gun, which only his father knew of, gone. Meanwhile, the police find the stolen money burned in the furnace. Mrs. Sentry sees her husband, who swears his innocence, and tells her he had known of the robbery and murder the night before, but failed to call the police, and came home at 12:30. Phil and his mother are doubtful of Sentry's innocence, but keep silent.

CHAPTER V

While they were at lunch, a little later, Dean Hare telephoned to say that Inspector Irons had decided to postpone his interrogations, so for the afternoon they were free. Mary was to see Neil Ray when he went off duty; and as they finished lunch, Linda came to propose that Phil go for a drive with her.

"I have to go out to those mills in Norwood to get some homespun," she explained, "and I hate to go alone."

Phil looked to his mother for consent. "Go along," she said. "Barbara and grandmother will be here." So Phil went, and found a measure of peace and forgetfulness in being thus with Linda. But when she brought him home, in late afternoon, he was reluctant to face them all; instead of going directly indoors, he walked around the house. He heard voices by the muddy stream beyond the pergola and went to look down over the bank. Policemen were there in boats with things like hinged rakes, dragging up debris from the bottom of the stream. One of them saw him and spoke quietly to the others, and they all looked up, silently. Phil went back toward the house, trembling.

He found his mother alone. "Mary's dining with Neil," she explained, "and I sent Barbara in to stay overnight with grandmother. Professor Brace called, drove them in." She smiled reassuringly. "So we'll have dinner together, you and I."

"Professor Brace?" he echoed. He remembered warily that the District Attorney had questioned Professor Brace, but he did not say so. "Funny for him to hang around."

"I suppose he's naturally interested. The scientific mind, you know." Her tone was edged. "We're under his microscope, like insects."

"He introduced himself to the reporters," Phil recalled. "Almost as if he wanted publicity."

"I see you don't like him either."

"Oh—I like him all right."

Dinner was served and they went in; and since they might here be overheard they spoke of other things. Phil talked at random, steadily, fighting down his thoughts: that his father had tried to burn money in the furnace, that his father was a murderer! He must not let his mother guess his dreadful certainty.

And she, as intent to hide her thoughts from Phil as he was to conceal his from her, helped him keep talk alive; but when they left the table and went into the living-room and were alone, silence crushed them; and Phil noisily lighted a fire, and Mrs. Sentry telephoned old Mrs. Sentry's apartment to say good night to Barbara. She reported to Phil, when she left the phone, that Professor Brace had stayed to dinner with them.

"I suppose he's taking notes," she reflected. "Like that German tutor at the foot of the table in 'War and Peace.' Remember? There's just a paragraph about him, but he's perfectly clear cut, a complete character in your mind afterward."

Phil did not remember. "But speaking of Russians," he suggested, "how about some Russian Bank?" So they played till Mrs. Sentry said at last that they might as well go to bed. The house seemed very big and empty when they went upstairs, and parted for the night.

Later, Mrs. Sentry, still awake, heard Mary come in; but the girl did not come upstairs, so her mother went down, a dressing-gown over her night garments. She found Mary in the living-room, standing by the hearth, her lips bitten red, her hands twisting.

And Mrs. Sentry tried in an awkward way—they were not a demonstrative family—to take the girl in her arms, but Mary said, "Don't, please!"

So Mrs. Sentry sat down. "Shall we talk for a while?" she suggested. "Or are you sleepy?"

"Sleepy!" The word was fierce with scorn.

"How is Neil?"

"Very sensible!"

Mrs. Sentry said, "I knew he would—help you."

"Oh—help? Of course!"

"He didn't, then?"

Mary said: "Don't worry about Neil! We were practically engaged, but I told him tonight we must forget that. That after all this, I was hopelessly disqualified to be a missionary's wife, even in China!"

Mrs. Sentry waited. Mary said in a flat voice, passionless as ashes, "He agreed with me."

After a while her mother spoke.

On the homeward way—Barbara returned with them—they heard newsboys calling late editions, and one bawling youngster jumped on the running-board when they stopped for a traffic light to thrust a paper before their eyes. A headline, inches high, "Sentry Indicted." Mrs. Sentry closed her eyes, and the light changed, and the car leaped ahead.

At home a knot of people scattered from the entrance to the drive, gaped at them as they drove in. Phil saw that one woman had broken off a branch of rhododendron, and he thought bitterly: For a souvenir!

Indoors, Barbara asked in a shaken whisper, "Mother, what does 'indicted' mean?"

Mrs. Sentry said, "Hush, darling!" And she asked, "Do you know where Mary is, whether she'll be home to dinner?" She felt cold as iron. Barbara shook her head.

"I think Mary's rotten!" Phil said angrily. "We've got to stick together!"

"She's pretty unhappy, Phil."

She tried to tell herself: He did not do it! Of course, he had lied to her about the time, that night, knowing she was too sleepy to recognize his lie; but naturally he would lie, after that dreadful moment at the office when he found the dead girl. Found her dead! Mrs. Sentry clung to that thought stubbornly, insisting to herself that Arthur did find the girl dead as he had told her, refusing to remember the panic in his eyes, refusing to remember his tone when he reiterated his assertion that Miss Wines was dead before he found her. Found her dead, he said; and was afraid, and left her and came skulking home.

And Mrs. Sentry hoped suddenly that he would not tell the District Attorney that story of chance discovery and craven flight. Anything was better than that shame. She thought that if he did not speak they might find some woman—any woman—to swear that he had been with her during the hours when the murder occurred. That crime at least would be robust, masculine; not weakly cowardly...

But of course anything, any story true or false that could be made credible, was better than to see him convicted of murder. If that happened, she could never lift her head again. The pride she lived by was worth fighting for. Even with lies!

Linda came in as they finished dinner, and Mrs. Sentry welcomed her, and proposed a rubber of bridge. She clung to Linda's friendly loyalty. Linda agreed; but Barbara would not.

"I'm sorry," she said, trying to smile. "I'm afraid this is my evening for—letting go." Her tones were tremulously brave. "If you don't mind, I think I'll slip off by myself and cry for a while."

She darted away. Phil would have followed her, but Linda said softly: "No, Phil. Let her go!"

They heard Barbara's door close, upstairs. Mrs. Sentry rose and they went into the living-room, and talk ran somehow, and a little after nine, a car grated on the drive.

It was Mary. She came in without laying aside her hat. Mrs. Sentry realized that the car had not gone away, and she was cold with fear of what Mary would say. The girl was flushed. Mrs. Sentry saw, incredulously, that she had been drinking. When Mary spoke, her tones were louder than usual, harsh, defiant.

She said to Linda, curtly, "This is a family council, Linda." She added carelessly, "Oh, stay if you like, of course."

Phil protested: "Hey, Mary, don't talk like that! What's the matter with you?" He exclaimed, "You're drunk!"

She laughed derisively. "If I'm not it's not for lack of trying." And she asked Linda: "Going? All ashore that's going ashore! The ship's sinking!"

Linda said quietly: "No, Mary. I'll stay."

Mrs. Sentry felt desperately that she must speak, must do something. Her heart was full of a great compassion; but old habit of repression bound her tongue. "Mary, you're not yourself!" she said sternly.

"Myself?" Mary laughed in a shrill way. "Myself? Who am I? Who are you? Who are any of us?" And she said furiously: "Oh, I thought I knew! I thought we were so secure, and settled, and decent, and good." Her laughter rang madly. "Decent? Good? No decent, good people will ever speak to us now."

"Mary!"

"Good Night! I'm Going to Bed."

tentatively. "I wish I could—hold you in my lap, dear, as I did when you were little and were hurt."

"No, thanks. I'm not little any more." The girl stood before the hearth, rigid and still, her eyes fixed, her hands clasped behind her. Mrs. Sentry thought of a martyr at the stake surrounded by flames, burned without being consumed. She began to talk, of casual, healing things.

"Some people called this afternoon," she said. "Mrs. Harry Murr, bulging with questions she wanted to ask and didn't quite dare. And Mrs. Furness brought Miss Glen. You could see her memorizing every stick of furniture, every picture on the walls, to use in her next novel."

The girl cried: "Mother, don't! How can you stand it?"

"And that young professor, Mr. Brace, dropped in." Mrs. Sentry persisted. "He took mother and Barbara to town."

"You're driving me crazy!"

Mrs. Sentry sighed wearily, surrendering. "I'm sorry about Neil, Mary. Yet—if he couldn't stand the gaff, isn't it a good thing to know?"

"No it isn't!" Mary cried. "What does that matter, if you love a man? What does it matter if he's weak, a sniveling coward, a drunkard, a thief?" Her eyes widened. "Even a murderer," she whispered. "You go on loving him just the same."

And she cried: "Oh, why is love so deep a part of women, mother? Why can't we be reasonable, sensible!" She spat the word. "Like men!" And suddenly, seeing the older woman's face, she stopped, said then curtly: "Good night! I'm going to bed." The still room ached when she was gone.

When Mrs. Sentry came downstairs in the morning, Mary had departed, leaving no message; and the older woman felt a deep concern that was half despair.

But she hid it from Phil. They stayed at home, together and yet each one alone. Phil wondered whether his mother knew that the Grand Jury might act today; he thought of a group of strange men, in a secret room somewhere, hearing evidence against his father, and trembled as though he were ill. He thought his mother might suggest that they go again to see his father, and knew that he himself had no strength to face the older man and to pretend he did not know what he did know. But his mother did not make the suggestion; and after lunch they drove in to see old Mrs. Sentry, and heard newsboys shouting the name of Sentry, and Mrs. Sentry shivered at last and said with a weary smile:

"I think we'd better stay at home hereafter, Phil."

Mrs. Sentry explained. "Neil Ray broke their engagement."

"Engagement? I didn't know they were engaged."

"They would have been, in time. Mary loved him."

"I'd like to knock his block off!" Mrs. Sentry said: "Don't be a child, Phil. I'm afraid you'll find a good many people take the same attitude. Now get ready for dinner, both of you."

She thought at dinner, while Phil and Barbara talked to her, bravely cheerful, that the world of which they were a part must be just now full of buzzing tongues. Her own tongue had never been under a curb. From the security of an assured position she had spoken as she chose, rigorous toward those who transgressed her code. Now others would have their turn. She tried to imagine what people would say, what their attitude would be. Would they speak to her of Arthur? Protesting they believed him innocent, professing friendship and sympathy while they watched her with sly, avidly curious eyes? She shuddered, and she thought: I might take the children abroad, live the rest of our lives abroad, perhaps assume another name. But someone who knew them would find them out; there would be whispering, whispering...

Sensitive Springs Spun From Quartz; Tiny Threads Give Precise Measurement

Quartz, which looks like glass and is a sort of glass, is the last material most of us would use to make a spring. But the scientists in the General Research laboratories find nothing but quartz will do for springs in making precise measurements, says a writer in the New York Times.

Steel springs rust; quartz springs don't. Steel springs are affected by changes in humidity; quartz springs are not. Steel springs begin to lose their temper at about 250 degrees Centigrade (482 degrees Fahrenheit); quartz springs never lose their temper except at temperatures not attained in ordinary practice.

A quartz spring has a sensitivity of one milligram. In other words, it can detect a difference of weight as little as one 28,350th of an ounce. And it always snaps back, after stretching, to exactly the original point of rest.

Suppose it becomes necessary to measure the amount of moisture absorbed by cotton or cellulose. The cotton is suspended at one end of the spring and the weight of the sample determined by the stretch of the spring. By introducing more and more water at varying pressures it becomes possible to determine just how much moisture cotton can absorb.

Making a quartz thread is something of a fine art. The first step is to spin a fine thread no more than six one-thousandths of an inch in diameter. This is done by heating a fused quartz rod to more than 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit and pulling threads from the rod. The threads are measured by calipers. All within a quarter of a mill of the desired six-mil size are saved. (A mil is a unit used to measure the diameter of a wire. It is equivalent to a thousandth of an inch.)

The final step is to place the thread in a long brass trough which leads to a mandrel (technical term for a drum of the right diameter). As it passes over the mandrel the thread is heated to 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit. The mandrel makes two revolutions a minute. After cooling, the coils are ready for use.

IT LOOKS as if the skids had been put beneath another foreign star. Columbia has had Dolly Haas on the payroll for a year—at $1,250 a week, which may be a tidy little sum and nothing more to Columbia, but is a lot of money to a lot of us—and she was scheduled to play the lead in Lubitsch's "The Shop Around the Corner." She didn't make any other pictures; just waited for that one.

So—Lubitsch recently moved into the Selznick-International studio, ready to begin work on the picture, his first as head of his new unit in association with Myron Selznick. But he wanted, not Dolly Haas, but Janet Gaynor, for the lead. A disappointment for the lovely Viennese, no doubt. Incidentally, the demure Janet goes right on increasing in feminine charm all the time.

Janet Gaynor

Ronald Colman's marriage to Benita Hume rather startled a lot of people, who felt sure that he'd never marry again. It wasn't exactly the sort of ceremony that might have been expected, but Colman's knowledge of the publicity that attends any star's wedding no doubt prompted him in keeping his application for a license secret, and having a police judge perform the ceremony.

Ever since 1920, when he and his first wife separated, there have been rumors to the effect that the dashing hero of "If I Were King" was going to marry someone or other, although he has never been one of those young men about Hollywood who used rumored romances as a sure-fire way of garnering publicity. The beautiful Benita is just the wife one would select for him—best wishes to them both!

The fates seem to be agin' Ralph Bellamy, so far as owning a home is concerned. Last winter the California floods washed away his $50,000 home in North Hollywood. This summer the Connecticut hurricane washed away the house and much of the land on his farm in that state. Looks as if he'd have to buy him a trailer and settle down in that.

I like Kate Smith; I like her new radio program Thursday nights, which keeps her right up there with the topnotchers. But I do not like her when I am waked up at the crack of dawn to receive a pale blue turtle with "Greetings From Kate Smith" across its painted back, accompanied by a box of fish food.

Any time the movies need a young and handsome man to conduct an orchestra—and really conduct it, too—they can't do better than to raid the field of radio and take Macklin Marrow. He has been guest conductor of practically all the big symphony orchestras but the Boston and he is undeniably both young and handsome. What's more, it was accidentally discovered, the other day, that he screens well.

A friend of his got involved in making a commercial movie. She took a look at the young man sent by one of the model agencies, and they wouldn't do at all. Then she remembered him. Unlike many radio big-timers, he was delighted to do it, just for fun and to oblige a friend. With that picture serving as a screen test he should be able to sign his name to a Hollywood contract if he ever wants to.

Dorothy Thompson, our most famous woman news commentator, has also discovered something about herself as the camera sees her. She's on the air now on a program that includes Phil Spitalny's orchestra, and the other day a picture was taken of him leading the orchestra, with her at the microphone. It couldn't be sent out to the papers; the dignified Miss Thompson—or Mrs. Sinclair Lewis, just as you like—looked exactly like a pretty blues singer, instead of an important commentator on world affairs!

Harry Duncan of the "Radio Rubes" declares that he can tell which parts of the country are having bad weather by the amount of fan mail he gets from those sections. During New England's hurricane week the "Rubes" averaged two hundred letters a day, and he knew that the storm was really terrific when the postman brought four layer cakes. Thinks all New England must have been moored to their radios.

ODDS AND ENDS... Charlie Farrell's next stop on his come-back trail will be the male lead in "Tailspin," with Alice Faye... "Drums" ought to go down on your list of the new pictures that you must see... Paramount wasn't too pleased when their starlet, Ellen Drew, told Philadelphia reporters that she has a three-and-one-half-year old son.

Your Health May Depend on Your Teeth

An Editorial by C. Houston Goudiss

The reason why some men and women in their middle years look and feel younger today than their parents did at the same age, is because they have learned something of the importance of caring properly for their teeth. In recent years, dentists have discovered that sound teeth are in truth a passport to good health, and that there is as close a relationship between healthy teeth and healthy bodies as between decayed teeth and sickly bodies.

Unfortunately, however, only a small percentage of our population is yet aware of the far-reaching effects of teeth upon health, and a distinguished scientist is so disturbed over our national ignorance in this respect that he has said that unless this trend is reversed, the course of human evolution will lead downward to extinction. That statement is no exaggeration. For it would be difficult to over-estimate the influence of the teeth on human health and happiness.

For many years I have endeavored to explain that a neglected tooth—which soon becomes a decayed tooth—is a poison factory, distributing its noxious products to every part of the body, and that it may lead indirectly to neuritis, rheumatic ailments, dyspepsia, and other obscure complaints.

In many of the "WHAT TO EAT AND WHY" articles, which have appeared in this newspaper over my signature, I have endeavored to point out the close relationship between diet and dental disease; between frequent and thorough brushing of the teeth with an efficient dentifrice so as to remove all food particles, and strong, beautiful teeth.

As a result of these articles, I have received many letters, showing that homemakers are eager for sound, authoritative advice on the proper care of the teeth. To help these and other readers how to properly care for their teeth, I have prepared a booklet on—"BUILDING AND PLANNING HEALTH" which I am offering FREE, because I feel so strongly that this information should be in every home, knowing as I do, that the salvation of the human race may lie in saving their teeth.

SMASH the ... "SINGLE TAX"

If a man steals your purse, at the point of a gun, IT'S ROBBERY!

But if tax cranks and social revolutionists rob you of your home, your farm, your job and your savings, IT'S YOUR OWN RESPONSIBILITY

Your DEFENSE is in your own hands—in your intelligent use of the ballot.

The discredited, six-times-defeated "Single Tax" will appear as Proposition No. 20 on your November ballot.

This ruinous proposal would ...

Confiscate Homes and Farms by piling Extortionate Taxes on Land—Higher than Taxpayers could pay.

It would wreck trades and industries, skyrocket rents, drain the State Treasury of the funds necessary to pay old age pensions, to maintain the public schools and other essential functions of government.

It would bring chaos, distress and disaster to California.

There is no Substitute for Experience!

County government is a highly specialized field. Every official act of a Supervisor is governed by law. Knowledge of these laws, gained only by study and experience, is the difference between the safeguarding of the public welfare and involving the county in serious and costly litigation. A supervisor should not only be able to interpret these laws, but administer them intelligently and impartially.

The office of a Supervisor is a full time job. It should not be considered a sideline to further one's own interests for gain or profit.

Joseph M. "Joe" McKinnon devotes his full time to his office and is not connected with any business or organization, directly or indirectly, which is interested in securing business from the county.

He is recognized as an authority on county government law and its administration.

He is for a more humane old age security law to replace the inadequate and inequitable law now in effect.

He has not nor will he accept the support of minority pressure groups or politicians, NOR WILL HE ACCEPT THEIR DICTATION. He stands for the best interests of the county as a whole.

Here are the FACTS about PROPOSITION #1

Read this statement carefully. It shows why you should VOTE "YES"

(STATEWIDE ELECTION—NOV. 8)

Note the Fairness and Justice of this Act:

WORKERS CAN ORGANIZE—

(and bargain collectively without interference).

WORKERS CAN STRIKE—

(but no sit-downs, nor seizures of property).

WORKERS ON STRIKE CAN PICKET—

(but with reasonable regulations and only peaceful methods).

WORKERS ON STRIKE CAN BOYCOTT—

(but only their own employer).

BUT NOBODY CAN—

interfere with free use of the highways and wharves by farmers or anyone else.

NOBODY CAN carry on MASS picketing.

NOBODY CAN use coercion or intimidation to force free citizens to join unions, or not join them, or other un-American practices.

NOBODY CAN use the excuse of "hot cargo" for boycotting or picketing because a union official declares a commodity "unfair."

NOBODY CAN boycott those with whom they have no quarrel. In brief — no secondary boycotts.

PROPOSITION #1 IS RIGHT BECAUSE IT IS FAIR

Read this list of some of the representative organizations that have studied Proposition #1 and have approved it officially because it is fair to labor, fair to employers and fair to the people of California:

Commonwealth Club of California • Southern Californians, Inc. • State Farm Bureau Federation • Associated Farmers • Agricultural Council of California • California Division of the Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of America • State Chamber of Commerce • State Junior Chamber of Commerce • California Wool Growers' Association • State Executive Board of the State Federation of Women's Clubs • Stockton Chamber of Commerce • Lodi Chamber of Commerce • San Francisco Chamber of Commerce • Redlands Chamber of Commerce • San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce • Dairy Lunch and Cafeteria Owners' Association • Northern California Hotelmen's Association • San Francisco Hotel Association • Good Government of San Francisco, Inc. • Retail Bakers' Association of San Francisco, Inc. • Lafayette Society • Steuben Society

Philip Bancroft

Fighting Farmer ... Level-headed Executive
U. S. SENATOR

Do something for yourself — to better those conditions of State and Nation which have hurt us all.

Do it by electing Philip Bancroft United States Senator!

Philip Bancroft raises your voice against the causes of depression — against Utopian schemes whether for State or Nation — against vicious trade treaties that permit foreign nations to dump $2 worth of their produce here, while buying only $1 worth of ours.

He raises your voice against un-American and subversive radical activities—against National Labor Relations Board favoritism to the C.I.O. and its prejudice against the A. F. of L. and employers.

He raises your voice in favor of prosperity soundly founded—in favor of labor peace and impartial labor administration—in favor of free enterprise in business and agriculture—in favor of non-political relief, as relief and not as a career—in favor of tariff protection for American agriculture, industry and labor—in favor of America!

HIRAM JOHNSON SAYS:

"Of course I am for Philip Bancroft for Senator! ... I am for him because he has honesty, ability, and, above all, courage. ... In a political world of deceit and hypocrisy he stands forth a new kind of campaigner, who believes in what he says and says it without equivocation."

To the Voters

I wish to express my belief in Amos O. Williams as the logical candidate for Coroner, because of his demonstrated ability in office and high personal character.

As a fellow mortician and former assistant to Mr. Williams in the Coroner's office, I can vouch for his absolute honesty and fairness.

I respectfully urge those whom I can gratefully look back upon as my supporters in the primary, and all who wish this important county office to be placed in competent hands, to assist actively in the election of Amos O. Williams.

HALT THIS PLUNGE INTO SQUANDERMANIA!

Proposition No. 13 on your November ballot is a brazen attempt to let down the bars to wholesale public borrowings which would mean...

Staggering Debt And New Tax Burdens

THIS dangerous proposal would abolish the basic safeguard requiring a two-thirds vote for bond issues!

It makes it easier to get into debt, but harder to get out!

It would permit the issuance of revenue bonds IN ANY AMOUNT, by a bare majority of those actually going to the polls. In reality, it would mean that any district, city or county could be plunged into debt by A SMALL MINORITY, as only a fraction of the registered vote usually turns out for a bond election.

You can't afford it. Your neighbors can't afford it. No city or district in California can afford it!

New World Crawls Into Shell As Revitalized Reich Expands

By Joseph W. La Bine

International

The U. S. has long maintained splendid trade relations with Western hemisphere nations, has more-over done this without resorting to heavy armaments. Until five years ago the U. S. was similarly strong in China. Reason: European and Asiatic nations have always been busy at home, not daring to risk invasion of the Western hemisphere. But since Japan became supreme in the Far East, the U. S. has been forced to expand her Pacific fleet. If this was cause for worry, a much greater cause is the Munich pact which sheared friendly France and Britain of their power. Dominant in Europe, anxious to increase their foreign trade, Italy and Germany that city's capture easier; (2) to cut the Hankow-Canton railroad and stop war supplies; (3) to force Canton into an independent peace with Japan.

But if Japan hopes thereby to force surrender of China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, she will be disappointed. Though 70 per cent of China's war materials have come through Canton, General Chiang has foreseen that city's fall and developed four alternative lines of entry. Two railroads enter from Indo-China and highways can carry supplies from both Burma and Russia. Moreover, Chinese are resigned to a 10-year struggle if necessary.

Far more likely than Chinese capitulation is a breach between Great Britain and Japan. Not since the siege of Japan has the British lion been so imperiled. Canton lies a scant 75 miles from the crown colony of Hong Kong, whose prosperity depends largely on trade with Canton. The maddening air of righteousness surrounding Japan's invasion of South China, coupled with warnings to Britain, France and the United States, shows clearly that Japan now considers herself the Far East's No. 1 power.

Races

During the World war Great Britain helped liberate Palestine's Arabs from the Turks, thereby winning Arabic support against Turkey. Although Arabs expected they would be rewarded with complete domination over Palestine, England's Lord Balfour led a successful campaign to establish part of the Holy Land as a haven for the wandering Jew.

Since then world Jewry has sent 400,000 persecuted Hebrews to Palestine, investing $385,000,000 to build a national home. But disgruntled Arabs have protested with warfare, keeping harried Britain busy policing the land over which she was given a mandate in 1923. While blood ran freely through the streets of Jerusalem, Bethlehem and Jaffa, Colonial Secretary of State Malcolm MacDonald has led a commission in search of amicable settlement.

Meanwhile, Jew-hating Germany and Italy have given restrained cheers for the Arabic cause, cheers that need no longer be restrained since the Munich peace treaty has placed Great Britain on the defensive. Faced with threats of Italo-German intervention unless Arabs were given a square deal, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain has been reported ready to "sell out" the Holy Land's Jews.

Thoroughly miserable, Prime Minister Chamberlain and Secretary MacDonald (son of the late Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald) were bombarded with protests the minute their weakened position was rumored.

MALCOLM MAC DONALD
Palestine's Jews are his problem.

mored. To make matters worse, Dr. Chaim Weizmann of London, president of the Zionist federation, has aroused U. S. Jewry to such an extent that President Roosevelt has been deluged with pleas to intervene. Thus Great Britain risks losing a measure of badly needed U. S. sentiment if she capitulates to Arabic demands.

As Prime Minister Chamberlain prepared to act, the least harmful settlement Hebrews could expect was a heavy restriction on Jewish immigration to the Holy Land. Even this, commented Jews, would almost make Great Britain an accessory to the Italo-German race persecution program.

Quotes

MISS MARGUERITE WELLS of the National League of Women Voters, on aroused interest in world issues: "One of the things about the dangers facing the world today is that it makes us in America realize how well off we are."

DR. WILLIAM LEAP of Birmingham (Ala.) university, on divorce: "The remedy does not lie in making divorces difficult to obtain. The problem should be met from the opposite direction—by making marriage requirements more stringent."

Politics

On Tuesday, November 8, the United States will elect an entire house of representatives, one-third of its senate and a host of governors. Since U. S. politics swings back and forth from Republican to Democratic domination, since the Democratic swing which began in 1933 has reached and passed its peak, the safest prediction is that Republicanism will start swinging back into power this year.

Obviously, it is Franklin Roosevelt's ambition to stymie a Republican comeback. But his chief interest in last summer's primaries was not Republicanism, but the construction of a coherent liberal party through so-called "purge" tactics. Since "purge" failed, since preservation of New Deal gains already made is now more important than party purification. November's election has resumed normal political color for the first time since 1930.

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT

As in 1936, this year's Republican candidates can base a strong campaign on New Deal failure. Unlike 1933 and 1936, this year's Democratic campaign becomes essentially a defensive proposition. But developments of the past month show that the New Deal's defense will not feature such argumentative points as AAA, relief and budget-balancing, will attempt instead to shift public interest on Franklin Roosevelt's accomplishments as a peacemaker. Three points of peace:

World Peace: The world may never know if President Roosevelt helped smooth over the Czech-German crisis, but his final message to Adolf Hitler and simultaneous pleas to every other world power came only a few hours before the Reichsfuehrer called his historic Munich parley. But, coming when it did, Roosevelt intercession looked tremendously successful. Thus, praising the administration's foreign policy as a safeguard to world peace, Democrats hope the voting public will overlook the fact that Munich's meeting did nothing to help democracy's cause, was instead a bloodless victory for Germany.

Business Peace: If the administration's foreign policy helped win world peace, it also helped U. S. business. Upshot has been a tremendous stock market upturn, greater steel and automobile production, higher railroad loadings. But part of this upturn is also due to governmental "pump priming," which is just beginning to show its effect. Nevertheless these signs of optimism came at a time when U. S. business decided to quit warring on the administration, choosing instead to play ball until a Republican government throws out New Deal measures which it considers oppressive. President Roosevelt has asked for less "saber rattling" and more co-operation between government and business. Charles Hook, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, has assured him that business is eager for co-operation. Thus, Franklin Roosevelt looms as a peacemaker with business.

Industrial Peace: When the American Federation of Labor convened in Houston, Texas, the President messaged his desire for a settlement of the factional war between A. F. of L. and John Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization. Obviously a solid labor front, thoroughly New Deal, would be a potent vote getter. How it could exercise this solidified strength against employers is an unpleasant thought, but the average business man is inclined to hope a patch-up will bring more conservatism to labor. Already the Rooseveltian business upturn has brought men back to work, resulting in fewer disputes between labor and capital. Though the President's efforts for peace between C. I. O. and A. F. of L. have been unsuccessful, the nation may well appreciate his gesture.

Despite the political connotations these peace efforts must certainly carry during election season, the President's self-chosen role of arbiter wins favor with a war-weary U. S. populace. Whether this popular appeal will overshadow Republican criticism on November 8 is anybody's guess.

Navy

Few navies have a definite system for naming their armor-clad war chariots. Even England's huge navy mingles historic and geographical names with unconcern. But the U. S., having started its gigantic naval construction program, will not permit such confusion. The new nomenclature system: Battleships named after states, cruisers after large cities, aircraft carriers after historic ships and battles, destroyers after naval officers.

Pretty New Work Clothes

WE CAN all get our work done better and more happily, if we go at it in the right clothes (and, of course, in the right way!), whether it's a complication in fractions, or the necessity of getting the house cleaned and dinner ready before a flock of in-laws arrive. Here are two new designs calculated to make life easier for ladies busy about the house and lassies busy in the schoolroom. Both are quick and easy to make. Each pattern is accompanied by a detailed sew chart.

House Dress for Large Women.

Every line of this simple dress is made for comfort and good looks. Ample armholes, a waist that looks slim but is thoroughly unconfined, a skirt wide enough to climb and to hurry in—all assure you complete freedom for working. The front fastening makes it easy to iron as well as to put on. The v-neck adds to the slenderizing effect of the long, plain lines. Contrasting cuffs with a touch of braid brighten it up, effectively. A diagram design, to be finished in a few hours. Make it of ging-ham, percale or calico.

Jumper Dress for School Girls.

This is an unusually good version of the always-smart jumper. It has such a nice, tiny waist, the skirt flares bee-yu-tifully, and the straps are so fixed that they won't fall off at the shoulders. Make several versions of the sweet little blouse, with its round collar and high-shouldered sleeves, in dimity, linen, organdy or flowered challis. One jumper, many blouses, make it easy to have a fresh outfit always ready for school. For the skirt, choose challis, jersey or flannel.

The Patterns.

No. 1623 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 5½ yards of 35-inch material; ¼ yard contrasting for cuffs and pocket; 1¼ yards of braid.

No. 1520 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1½ yards of 35-inch material for the blouse; 1¼ yards of 54-inch material for the jumper.

Fall and Winter Fashion Book.

The new 32-page Fall and Winter Pattern Book which shows photographs of the dresses being worn is now out. (One pattern and the Fall and Winter Pattern Book—25 cents.) You can order the book separately for 15 cents. Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 149 New Montgomery Ave., San Francisco, Calif. Patterns 15 cents (in coins) each.

You are Paying the Bill!

From newspaper articles, we learn of a recent scandal in which 73 officials were indicted for attempting to control an election through WPA workers.

In our own county, we have a somewhat similar situation. The present supervisor of District No. 4 has built a powerful political machine designed to control elections.

In a previous county election, approximately 1,000 employees were requested to pay part of their salaries into a campaign fund. In the present election, employees have been ordered to campaign for my opponent. They are ordered to tell their friends: "Vote for my boss. It means my job."

In addition to several hundred regular county employees, my opponent has actually hired a large number of new employees to aid in this campaign.

YOU ARE PAYING THE BILL!

If it were not for the power given the American people through the secret ballot, political corruption would be Public Enemy No. 1.

Use this power to break up the local control of professional politicians and political bosses.

A Candid View of an IMPORTANT PROBLEM

When selecting your representative in the legislature, you will require two things:

... Interested, impartial consideration of your problems.

... Sincere, honest representation in the Assembly.

Voting for Marshall S. Hall will give you both—

Unbiased and open-minded, he is not an "old line politician." He stands for fewer laws and better administration of existing ones.
